

NEW YORK OBSERVER

Published September 9, 2015 | Culture

THE MUST BE SCENE: 10 NY ART SHOWS TO CATCH THIS FALL
Jackie Saccoccio at Van Doren Waxter and Eleven Rivington

Van Doren Waxter, 23 East 73rd Street, September 9 – October 23
Eleven Rivington, 195 Chrystie Street, September 9 – October 18

By Ryan Steadman

Profile (Candy), 2015, oil on mica on linen, 106 x 79 in. Courtesy 11R Eleven Rivington, NY and Van Doren Waxter, NY

One of the hardest-working painters in the biz is gearing up for a two-venue show at these sister galleries. Ms. Saccoccio's been fine-tuning her sensational color bombardments for years, resulting in vestiges of splatters, scrapes, bleeds and drips that somehow maintain a vibrant punch of color. This fall she will unveil a large-scale portrait series: Think of them as abstract Technicolor "head-scapes" borne from the full-bodied gestural ethos of Bill de Kooning. This uptown/downtown combo could produce a crossover moment for the talented 52-year-old.