

VAN DOREN
WAXTER

artnet® news

Art World

Editors' Picks: 16 Events for Your Art Calendar This Week, From David Hammons at the Drawing Center to Duke Riley on the Great Molasses Flood

From new museum shows to virtual discussions, we have you covered.

Artnet News, February 1, 2021

Installation view, "Tworzkov: Towards Nirvana/Works from the 70s" Jack Tworzkov, Q3-72 #5 (1972). Photo courtesy of Van Doren Waxter, ©2021 Estate of Jack Tworzkov/Artists Rights Society (ARS), New York.

7. "Jason Andrew and Dorsey Waxter in Conversation" at Van Doren Waxter, New York

Right now at Van Doren Waxter's stately Upper East Side gallery, a historical exhibition of Jack Tworzkov's geometric compositions is on view in "Tworzkov: Towards Nirvana / Works from the 70s." The Polish artist is considered among the first generation of Abstract Expressionists, though his work is best known in its later iterations, when he turned from gestural abstraction toward rigid geometric compositions informed in large part by the Fibonacci sequence of numbers. On the occasion of the show, which runs through March 20, Jason Andrew, of the late artist's estate, and the gallery's Dorsey Waxter will discuss Tworzkov's painting practice, and his quest for ultimate artistic expression.

Price: Free

Time: 4 p.m. on Instagram live @vandorenwaxter

—Caroline Goldstein

